2Graves

Arts Theatre, London WC2

The newly refurbished Arts Theatre opens again with a theatrical cracker. Paul Sellar's 2Graves is a rarity – a modern verse monologue that works. As the bereaved son-turned-avenger, Jonathan Moore is quietly – not to say laconically – astonishing, drawing us into an East End world of brutes, convicts, fixed darts matches, and eventually the kind of sickening revenge where the avenger digs a grave for himself morally as well as a real one for his victim.
